SPARRING FOR POSITIONS

Thirty Miles of Peaceful Piave Valley Become Inferno of Battlefire.

LITTLE NEWS FROM RUSSIA

Diaz Men Determined to Repel Lunges of Invaders Till Reinforcements Reach Italy.

With the Russian situation still obscure, due to no direct advices being received from Petrograd or Moscow, the Italian situation remains of paramount interest in the news of the world war.

Everywhere along the battlefield from Lake Garda eastward and thence southward along the Piave river to the Adriatic sea, the Italians are holding the enemy in check except in the hilly region in the vicinity of the Asiago plateau where additional gains have been made by the invaders.

The new advances by the Teutonic allies, as observed on the war maps, do not indicate that points of extremely great strategic value have been won but rather that the Italians on various sectors have given ground before superior numbers and at the same time have straightened out and lessened the length of their front.

In the hills north of the Venetian plain, Gen. Diaz, the new commander in chief of the Italians, has withdrawn his advanced posts south of Monte Tomaticco. On the Asiago plateau and thence eastward to where the battle front meets the upper reaches of the Piave river, the German and the Austro-Hungarian forces are adding strength to their attacks, doubtless hoping to drive through the highland country to the plains of Venetia before the expected arrival of British and French reinforcements becomes a fact.

Near Zenson the positions of the enemy gradually are being encroached upon, while near the mouth of the river at Grisolera the invaders in the swampy lowlands constantly are under a vigorous shell and rifle fire.

Varied reports are still coming through concerning the situation in Russia, but out of the maze it has been impossible to disentangle one statement that may be considered trustworthy. One report had Petrograd in flames and another has 2,000 persons killed in the streets of Moscow during the fighting between the Kerensky and Bolshevik factions. Still another is to the effect that a coalition government has been formed in Moscow with members of the Bolshevik holding portfolios in it. Other unconfirmed reports are to the effect that anarchy reigns in Kiev and other Russian cities and that excesses against the Jews are being committed. Comparative quiet still prevails along the western front in France and Belgium.

Georges Clemenceau, one of France's most widely known public men and former premier, will form a new French ministry.

FOLLOWING THE FLAG.

Lieut. Frank W. Dabney, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Dabney, of this city, is now an officer in Co. D, Third Regiment of Missouri National Guard. His regiment is at Fort Dunnvan, in momentary expectation of being ordered to France. His brother, Robert Dabney, is at Akron, Ohio, in the chemical department of a plant furnishing supplies to the government.

According to a news dispatch in the daily press, the names of Captain Jas. D. Sory, Jr., Second Lieut. B. Louis Nisbet and Color Sergeant Chas. Nisbet, Madisonville boys, are included in a list of unassigned officers who are believed will be shortly detailed to France for instruction.
